

LIFE TOGETHER

For where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I among them.

—Matthew 18:20

As sinners, we are in desperate need of God's grace. Without it, we are left empty-handed and stuck in our sin. This is a situation we can't climb out of or improve. We are where we are—dead in our trespasses and sins. But God is gracious, that is, he gives freely to sinners. He forgives them, strengthens and keeps them, until they are with him forever at the resurrection. God gives us his grace in more than one way. Our Lutheran Confessions teach us this:

God is extravagantly rich in his grace: first, through the spoken word, in which the forgiveness of sins is preached to the whole world; second, through baptism, third, through the holy Sacrament of the Altar; fourth, through the power of the keys and also through the mutual conversation and consolation of the brethren.

The grace of God earned by his Son on the cross and from the grave is now hand-delivered to us that we might receive it and have it as our very own, first, through the Word and then through the sacraments (Baptism, the Lord's Supper, and Confession). The last item mentioned by Martin Luther seems a bit strange and out of place: "the mutual conversation and consolation of the brethren." This means that our simple conversations with one another as brothers and sisters in Christ is a way in which God is gracious toward us sinners. It is not only good but necessary for us, as the body of Christ, to be with one another, to talk with and encourage one another. This means that we shouldn't just show up for church and sneak out the back door, for we are a family. You matter to me, and I matter to you. We need one another, for solitude is the place where the devil does his best work. When we are left alone to fend for ourselves, we will lose more times than not. Martin Luther writes this on the matter:

Everything is less burdensome if you have a brother with you; for then the promise applies (Matt. 18:20): "Where two or three are gathered in My name, there am I in the midst of them." Therefore solitude should be shunned and the companionship of familiar people sought, especially in spiritual perils.

We do not fully realize the negative impact we have when we do not attend the Divine Service on a regular basis. We are missing out on being there for our brothers and sisters. Your absence matters, and it has a deep effect on the rest of us. You need to be there for yourself, to receive the forgiveness of sins in Word and Sacrament, but you also need to be there for others, to stand beside them, sing with them, and receive God's grace together with them, but also to converse with and console one another, as Christ does for us.

So, come to the fellowship time after the Divine Service and stay for Bible Study. Come to church dinners and any other event our congregation has. Come and be with one another. This is not only good for you but also for the brethren.

In Christ,

Pastor Haller

WHY?

QUESTIONS ABOUT THE LITURGY

Why does the pastor wear such strange clothes?

The word "holy" is often used to describe things in the Christian Church. We read from the Holy Bible. We are washed in Holy Baptism. We partake of the Holy Communion. And we are called saints, that is, holy people. This word "holy" is often thought of to mean "perfect" or "without any sin," but it actually doesn't. Rather, something that is holy is simply different. It has been made different from the average and ordinary. A holy thing or person has been separated by the Lord for his good purposes. The Holy Bible is different from all other books, for God is its author. Holy Baptism is not at all the same as washing your hands. Holy Communion is unlike any other meal you eat. And we, as saints, have been separated and saved from the rest of the fallen world.

This is why our worship is so different from anything else we see in our lives. The church's message is one of free forgiveness, grace with no strings attached, and mercy that has no end. The extraordinary love of our Father is so unlike the world, and therefore, so is the way we worship.

And so also are the clothes the pastor wears. He doesn't have an ordinary wardrobe. On Sundays, he's not wearing his casual t-shirt and jeans. If what he's doing in worship isn't ordinary or casual, but rather extraordinary and holy, then his clothes ought to match that. They should be different.

First, the pastor wears a clerical shirt. It's black with a white collar, a reminder that he is a sinner, darkened by original sin, and the only good thing he has to offer us is what comes from his vocal cords. God's words are spirit and life, and that's what the pastor is called to preach and proclaim, thus his collar is white.

Second, for the Divine Service, the pastor wears what most consider to be a "robe." It's actually called an alb, taken from a Latin word meaning "white." The alb completely covers the pastor, just as the righteousness of Christ covers all our sins. His role in the Divine Service is not to be seen or noticed, but all the attention is on the God who comes to serve us.

On top of the alb, the pastor wears a stole around his neck, which represents the yoke of Christ, as Jesus says "my yoke is easy and my burden is light" (Matthew 11:28). The pastor stands in Christ's stead, and the stole helps us remember that.

If the pastor is also administering the Sacrament of the Altar as the celebrant, he may also wear a chasuble over the alb and stole. Holy Communion is the pinnacle of Christian worship, and again, the one who consecrates and hands out our Lord's body and blood is doing so by the Lord's command. The pastor is the ambassador for Christ, and so it is fitting that he look like Christ (compare the chasuble to what Jesus is wearing in our sanctuary's artwork).

Grace Family-

What a fantastic time of worship, learning, and fellowship we received at this year's "Beyond Reasonable Doubt" Higher Things youth conference at Southern Illinois University. Our worship services were led by the faithful Pastor III, whom we all loved! We went to plenaries, breakaway sessions (one led by our very own pastor), fun activities, and twelve worship services. Thanks be to God!

The range in topics that were included, but not limited to at this year's conference, included "Proof We Can Trust the Bible as Eyewitness Accounts," "God, Science, & Philosophy," "Those Doubts We Have," and probably the most popular by our youth, "Trauma, Triggers, & Faith." Such topics helped each of us to delve into our faith a little deeper.

Activities were plentiful! Some played laser tag, nine square, participated in wax formations, a talent show, bumper ball, rock climbing, painting, and much more! The kids were excited about their new found friends from OK, and dubbed them "the Okies!" How wonderful for these new found relationships with other young adults from different states, and that they all share in the same faith!

The highlight of the week being the conference; we also had a great time touring The Ark Encounter on our way down to SIU. What a massive structure and feat that it was to build such an awesome replica of a beloved account of the Bible.

It was a packed week! But oh how our roots were planted a little deeper in our LCMS faith!

The youth of Grace and myself would like to thank each of you for all the financial support, encouragement, and prayers that you gave to us this past year to assure our spots at this year's Higher Things! The bottles and cans that were donated, some of the boards gave their meal donations, and the support of all our youth dinners is what made Higher Things 2023 possible! Thank you!!! Thank you to Hannah Haller for joining us as a chaperone and to Pastor Haller for driving us to and from and for presenting.

Yet again, as we look to next year's conference, we ask that you keep us in your prayers as we prepare. We ask for your unwanted cans and bottles, and that when our kids have dinners, please come and support them! Clearly, the trip this past year wouldn't have been made possible without you!

God bless and keep you always!

Pax.

Tracey L. Reinbold, Youth Director

THE DAILY READINGS

“God’s Word is the treasure that makes everything holy. By it all the saints have themselves been made holy. - New Church Directory: check with Rummel Studios in Frankenmuth / put together now or after Church Anniversary?
- Float for Bean Festival Parade: Elders are in charge of finding a truck and small trailer. Evangelism should decide on something to hand out along the parade route. Welcome to any suggestions for a theme.
